

Vacancy – Network Development and Scheduling Manager

Are you interested in joining Wizz Air's cutting-edge team and in playing your part to paint Europe pink and purple?

As part of our ongoing expansion across Europe, Wizz Air is looking for an additional Network Development and Scheduling Manager, reporting to the Head of Network Development and Scheduling.

The role is divided into three areas of responsibility:

Network development:

- Building relationships with airports and third parties (regions, tourism bodies, etc.)
- Assessing new markets based on strategic fit, financial potential, growth opportunity, risks and possible entry points
- Identifying new routes and bases to add to the network
- Providing financial forecasts for potential new routes and bases
- Building and maintaining financial evaluation tools as required
- Working with the revenue management team to determine amendments to existing routes, frequencies and airports
- Assessing competition in terms of strategic plans, seasonal developments in capacity and fares, analyzing strengths / weaknesses and recommending actions based on the risks and opportunities
- Assessing and interpreting market, economic and industry trends and the impact on route choice
- Managing the base mix cost to ensure it does not exceed budgeted costs

Scheduling & slots:

- Developing schedules which utilize crew manpower and aircraft efficiently and effectively
- Loading and managing flight capacity in the scheduling and flight operation systems
- Building and managing relationships with slot co-coordinators throughout Europe
- Securing and maintaining airport slots for future schedules
- Aligning and managing the communication and approval process between the scheduling and operational departments
- Coordinating data analysis with revenue management to improve revenue generation of different schedule scenarios
- Developing robust schedule tools to improve efficiency
- Managing IT system development projects related to scheduling, network & slot management

Regulatory:

- Building and maintaining relationships with applicable CAAs
- Monitoring and negotiating bilateral agreements in relevant markets
- Securing route permits in a timely manner

Requirements:

- University degree
- Strong analytical and problem solving skills
- Business mindset and ability to synthesize information into recommendations
- Previous scheduling experience is an asset
- Good oral and written presentations skills
- Team work and strong interpersonal skills
- Fluent spoken / written English
- Ability to live and work in Switzerland
- Flexibility to travel as required away from Head Office

Sounds exciting enough? Please submit you CV and cover letter to stijn.vandermoere@wizzair.com